

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to air the anti Kerry ad is a clear abuse of the corporate power they have, and it is a disgrace that they would actually try to throw an election in this manner.

If Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, do they not have an obligation to the American people to present programming that is not serving a partisan agenda?

Does the FCC not have the authority, or the obligation, to protect our democracy?

Please do something about this, the very future of our country very well could depend on the FCC enforcing election law and standing up for what is right.
